Lifestyle:

I keep Lubavitch minchagim to the extent that I have learned and have been able to reasonably and meaningfully adapt to my life. As I have a strong desire for truth and positivity, I seek out what will allow my soul to flourish, be real, and fulfill my life. I have found it in many forms, yet I am continually most inspired by and drawn to Chabad and try to instill those ideals in my two daughters of my previous marriage, who are 5 and 6 years old.

Usually daven and learn daily

I don't smoke and will not date a smoker

Education:

I am currently in a Masters of Education Program with Montessori Certification

I have a BS in Elementary Education, Early Childhood Development Specialization

I currently work at Cheder Chabad Philadelphia as the afternoon Nursery Teacher

Physical Characteristics:

Light Brown Hair

Greenish-Hazel Eyes

5'2"

124 lbs.

Birthday: March 19, 1978; 35

General:

I consider myself kind, very nurturing, positive, clean and organized. I have been told by many people that my presence is very calming and soothing.

I think my being the fourth of seven children, BH, contributed to a balanced sense of self and a refined sensitivity to others. To decompress I exercise or do something that I enjoy like being outdoors in an open, natural environment, or playing piano.

I'm very friendly and personable. In the past I have held kiruv/leadership roles and have been involved with Jewish educational and social programs and events for young professionals.

My ideal home is one of shalom and warmth. I want a relationship in which we have the utmost respect, love, and trust for each other, one that is open and emotionally strong.

I enjoy:

listening to and playing music, museums, nature, reading, traveling, swimming, hiking, snowboarding, concerts, my friends, and learning.

What I am looking for:

Someone who is kind, patient, calm, genuine, honest, and grounded; confident and assertive, yet not overbearing; sensitive, good natured, humble, healthy and capable of a deep, mature relationship that enables us to bring out the best in each other.
